What is CIA Certification?

The CIA certification offered by The Institute of Internal Auditors (IIA) is the only internal auditor certification recognized around the world. Certified Public Accountants (CPAs) are also trained in the area of auditing and perform some of the same tasks as a CIA, but the work of a CPA is usually limited to auditing the financial statements of a client company.

What is an Internal Auditor?

An internal auditor is a trained professional employed by companies and organizations to provide independent and objective evaluations of risk and contribute to the risk management process.

Internal auditors provide great value to companies, and many organizations employ internal auditors even if they are not legally obligated to do so. The presence of certified internal auditors further increases the value of a company, as they follow the standards and best practices put forth from the institute of internal auditors (IIA).

Why CIA Certification?

-Improve Income Potential & Job Opportunities: Earning your CIA will provide a greater salary boost than moving to a bigger city, changing to a larger organization, or even gaining years of experience. According to the IIA, the median salary of auditors with CIA certification can be as much as 40% higher than their non-CIA-holding peers.

-Gain Credibility AND International recognition CIA is an internationally recognized designation. Going through the rigors of passing the CIA exam and meeting the ongoing education requirements of the IIA is a clear demonstration to your peers and your employer (current or future) of your passion for the internal auditing profession.

-Be Part of a Global Network of Auditing Professionals (the IIA): by joining the IIA, which is required for certification, auditors can dramatically expand their professional networks and connections through a host of conferences, educational events, meetings and more

CIA with BCA international:

1. Read the Textbook

Your textbook is the core of the HOCK study program. It contains explanations of the concepts that you need to know and detailed examples for complicated topics.

2. Watch the Videos

The videos are streamed from the HOCK site and must be watched online. Note: Not every detail in the books is covered in the videos, so they cannot take the place of studying your textbook.

3. Answer the MCQs / Essays

Answering practice questions without studying the materials will not prepare you for the exam because the questions on the exam will be very different from the practice questions. Only studying and knowing the concepts will prepare you to answer the unfamiliar questions on the exam.

4. Review / Forum / Ask Questions

If you have questions after going through the materials, ask for help from our teachers in the Student Forum. You can also browse questions other students have asked and had answered.
